ALARM CLOCK CAUSES DOWNFALL

Of Paul Newman, And He Is Sentenced to a Year in The Bridewell Penitentiary.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 29.—One alarm clock caused the arrest of Paul Newman Wednesday and another his conviction and sentence to a year in the Bridewell. He was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell and fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge Caverly in the Desplaines street court Wednesday for the theft of the clocks and some clothing from the restaurant of A. Covillo, Tuesday night.

Newman was arrested at Halstead and West Madison streets. Attention was attracted to him when one of the clocks in his pocket began ringing. Detectives Sullivan and O'Brien, who had been detailed on the case, heard the sound.

"There's our man," whispered Sullivan to his partner, and while Newman was vainly trying to smother the clock, he was taken into custody.

During the hearing one of the clocks again took a notion to get busy, and the unexpected sound the Judge and everyone in the room.

CROKER'S DAUGHTER GETS NO DIVORCE

Jury Reports to Justice Goff That There Was No Chance of An Agreement, And is Discharged.

New York, Feb. 29.—Ethel Croker Breen, wife of John J. Breen, a riding master, and daughter of former Tammany Boss Richard Croker, has failed to win a divorce decree.

The jury in the Supreme Court Wednesday reported to Justice Goff that there was no chance of an agreement in the case and it was discharged.

Mrs. Breen charged her husband with having been too friendly with Miss Maudie Diehl, a telephone operator in the Grand Union Hotel, in Toronto, on September 5 last. Miss Diehl and Breen testified during the trial of the divorce case that they had flirted a little and had drunk gin rickey together, but had done nothing that warranted a divorce from Mrs. Breen.
